Getting to Know the Windows ® XP Operating System

Lesson 5: Creating a new folder

Lesson 5: Creating a new folder

The operating system stores documents and programs in folders. It even stores other folders in folders. In this lesson,

you will create a folder in which to store your new document.

1

Move the pointer to an empty area of the desktop, then click the secondary button.

The operating system displays the desktop shortcut menu.

Click New, then click Folder.

The operating system creates an icon on the desktop called New Folder with the icon name highlighted.

3

Type a name for the folder, such as My Folder, then press

4

Close the Notepad document you just created by clicking the Close button on the right side of the Notepad title bar.

The operating system displays the document as an icon on the desktop.

5

Click the document icon and drag it toward your New Folder icon. Position the document icon over the New Folder icon until it changes color, then release the primary button.

The outline of the document icon moves across the desktop and disappears into the folder.

6

To see your document, double-click the folder icon.

A window opens and displays the contents of the folder.

DEFINITION: A folder is an area where you can store documents and other types of files. It is analogous to a file folder stored in a file cabinet. In this case, a disk drive in the computer is the file cabinet.
